ABSTRACT

Post-2012 framework should urge maximum efforts to each nation. Japan proposes to integrate bottom-up sectoral approaches and reasonable indicators to post-2012 framework, in order to enhance practical, effective and equitable actions and to secure “Leveling playing field”. Update of APP (Asia Pacific Partnership) and other international activities on sectoral approach will be introduced.

JICA and JBIC, two major Japanese ODA agencies, will present their development activities related to climate change with focus on "co-benefit" approach to mitigation and adaptation, and discuss on how ODA will assist developing countries' sustainable development while addressing Climate Change.
